

Michael B. Byaruhanga

Assistant Lecturer in the Department of Forestry, Biodiversity and Tourism. He holds Bachelor of Tourism (Hons) from Makerere University, MPhil in Development Studies (Geography) from the Norwegian University of Science and Technology (Trondheim) and is currently a PhD fellow at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark. He has served as Member of the SFECS Secretariat for Curriculum Review, member of FBT Special Projects Committee and currently he is a member of the Recess Term Committee. He has been involved in community conservation and livelihoods research since 2008. He worked with Uganda Wildlife Education Centre as an Education Officer and at Nature Uganda in the Important Bird Areas Project. He is a member of Uganda Wildlife Clubs and Nature Uganda. His research interests include improving rural livelihoods through equitable resource utilization and conservation.