

Deus K. Muhwezi

Lecturer in the Department of Forestry, Biodiversity and Tourism. He holds a PhD in Tourism Marketing from Makerere University, M.Sc. in Hospitality Management from Dublin Institute of Technology (Ireland) and BSc. Human Nutrition from Sokoine University of Agriculture, Tanzania. He was a Teaching Assistant in Makerere University Business School from 2001 and joined Makerere University as an Assistant Lecturer in 2006. He has taught and supervised research in entrepreneurship skills development, hospitality ethics and law, human resource management, hospitality and tourism service operations and events management. His research focus is on destination image formation (difficult destinations), transformation and symbolism of tourism destinations, service quality perception, operations management (hospitality and tourism), creativity and innovation culture (tourism and hospitality). He has published 4 papers on destination symbolism, shades of difficult heritage, hospitality training needs and MICE sector analysis in Uganda. He is the current Chairperson of Makerere University Academic Staff Association (MUASA).